"The Challenges to Women in Criminal Law"

Who: Juliet Peck, Partner in the Law Offices of Lawrence & Peck, is our guest speaker.

Ms. Peck plans to briefly present a historical perspective regarding female attorneys who defend clients facing criminal charges. Does gender interfere with career choices our young women would like to make? Does gender get in the way of perceived effectiveness as juries deliberate the guilt or innocence of criminals defended by a female attorney? Ms. Peck's recollections, as the public defender for several Monterey County high publicity cases, of how things are often done in our male dominated Criminal Law proceedings will be most interesting. A case in point was the 1996 horrific murder finally brought to trial in 2005. Public Defender Peck's thorough investigation and vigorous defense tactics were truly fascinating. Most Expensive Monterey County Case Brought to Trial, ever? Yes. Defendant's Guilt? Not.

RSVP: Please mail $25 check made out to AAUW-MPB by March 10th to Joan Kiliany, #5 La Playa Avenue, Monterey, CA 93940, 644-9344

April Meeting is at Doc Ricketts Lab

From reading Cannery Row and Sweet Thursday, using Pacific Tides as a reference or more recently reading excerpts from The Death and Life of Monterey Bay in the Herald, you are familiar with the legends surrounding Doc Ricketts. On April 14th at 10am you have a rare chance to tour the lab and hear the stories. All you need to do is RSVP to Susan Murphy murphfam@redshift.com or 622-9289 by April ninth and meet us in front of the lab on Cannery row just down from the Aquarium a few minutes before 10. The tour should take about two hours and you might want to have lunch with other AAUW members. Space is limited so reserve early.

AAUW's Mission

Advancing equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, and research.

AAUW's Value Promise

By joining AAUW, we belong to a community that breaks through educational and economic barriers so that all women have a fair chance.

PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE

"AAUW Action Alert" is a message that often appears in our list of emails. How many times do you delete it before you even read it? Every day, we receive emails from organizations we support urging us to act quickly on one issue or another. The messages ask us to do something: to write to a member of the U.S. Congress, or send a check to support a cause or write a letter to the editor. We're overwhelmed by these appeals and we're cynical that our actions won't count.

Let's slow down and examine the messages that appeal to us for help. For example, recently we received an email from the AAUW Public Policy and Communications Team about a new program called "AAUW Voices Project." Members of the Voices Project are media first responders who will be provided with resources and training aimed at targeting their writing skills for opeds, letters to the editor and other media outreach. The goal is simple: to have AAUW voices published throughout the nation to educate the public, spark debate and bring about positive change.

What a great opportunity! If you are interested in getting involved, but have deleted this particular email, you can fill out the short AAUW Voices Project application and be on your way to having your voice heard. Your application should be sent to Samuel Lehman, AAUW grassroots advocacy coordinator, or faxed to 202 466-7637 (attn: Samuel Lehman).

We serve ourselves well by looking back at women's history to see how far we've come. Indeed, the passage of the Nineteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution in 1920 was accomplished by women insisting on having their voices heard. Here in California, it was the voices of women that paved the way for our state to grant women the right to vote in 1911, a full ten years before the federal legislation was approved. This year, our state marks the 100th anniversary of California women winning the right to vote. Back then, email didn't even exist! Think what we could accomplish today with the many electronic tools available to us?

This year also marks the 90th anniversary of California AAUW. Through AAUW we have a strong voice both in Washington and in Sacramento. Please, let's not be so quick to delete the emails that urge AAUW action. We can honor those women who came before us and who worked so diligently in the areas of education and gender equity to get us where we are today. We can do that by continuing their work, by getting involved and by having our voices heard. In today's media-savvy culture, solid action often begins with an AAUW Action Alert in your messages mailbox. Delete it? Yes or no? Be sure that's what you really want to do.

MORNING BOOK GROUP

The Morning Book Group is official! A handful of enthusiastic readers have formed the Morning Book Group, which will meet the third Monday of each month. We will read both fiction and nonfiction.

The next two meetings will be March 21 and April 18. We meet at 10 a.m., at The Works (previously Book Works), 557 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove. As our membership grows, we'll need to come up with an alternative location.

For book titles and further information about signing up, contact Susan Murphy, 622-9289, murphfam@redshift.com, or Sally Hekkers, 455-2852, swhekkers@sbcglobal.net.

Donations from our branch members will allow us to send a girl to Camp Currie in July. We will also be sending a second camper - this is made possible by a generous donation from P.E.O. Chapter HT of Pacific Grove. Do take 8 minutes of your time today to watch a delightful video portraying the joy of the girls' Tech Trek experiences:

RE: Press Release Regarding AAUW's Top-Rating on

GreatNonprofits.org

AAUW Recognized as Top Nonprofit for Education, Women's Empowerment

WASHINGTON – The American Association of University Women (AAUW) has been named a top-rated nonprofit in two categories through GreatNonprofits' reviews of charitable organizations. AAUW is listed as a top women's empowerment organization and a top education organization.

GreatNonprofits, which is itself a nonprofit organization, provides an online forum for user reviews of nonprofits. The reviews by AAUW members and others who have benefited from AAUW's research, publications, fellowships and grants, and leadership programs led to AAUW's inclusion as a top nonprofit in the areas of education and women's empowerment.

"AAUW is honored to have received this high rating from such a distinguished organization," said AAUW Executive Director Linda D. Hallman, CAE. "The rating is a fantastic validation of our organization's strong mission, values, and financial transparency."

In their reviews, supporters of AAUW shared some of their individual accomplishments and AAUW's important role in their lives. These stories, featured on the GreatNonprofits.org website, highlight examples of AAUW's work to advance equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy, and research.

GreatNonprofits was started in 2007 as a site to provide reviews and ratings of U.S. nonprofits. Users can rate more than 1.2 million nonprofits through the site and partner sites.

(Did you know?)

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) advances equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy, and research. Since 1881, AAUW has been one of the nation's leading voices promoting education and equity for women and girls. AAUW has a nationwide network of more than 100,000 members and donors, 1,000 branches, and 500 college/university institutional partners. Since AAUW's founding 130 years ago, members have examined and taken positions on the fundamental issues of the day — educational, social, economic, and political. AAUW's commitment to educational equity is reflected in its public policy advocacy, community programs, leadership development, conventions and conferences, national partnerships, and international connections.
